A Merry Christmas, one and all, And a hap y good New Year; Long live the pleasures of the past, Let its sorrows disappear.

We warmly thank our numerous friends In the neighboring state and her, For the many favors we've received Through the waning good old year.

We trust old friends may still remain, While many new draw mear; And witness in our humble way, How we'll whease them through next year.

We'll greet their aid with generous pride, And a hear, y right good cheer. And welcome the p b ic, one and all, To our services through the year.

So come slong—be not dismayed, Our terms are not severe; A moderate charg and better work, Cur motto in th' ensuing year.

We would not harm th' opposing trade, Nor give it cause to lear. But gladly move in peace with all Throughout the next New Year.

Now, one word more before we part:
We'll shee your horse or mend your cart,
Repair your wages to a fraction.
And guarantee good satismetion;
Fit up a our Buggies, Salkies, Busses,
Renew your Pincton-, Barouches, Conches;

ENGLISH SUMMARY.

We have received one together files of papers up to November 10th, and letters to 21st. The principal topic in the London papers is the speech of the Emperor, which has created quite a nine days' sensation, and is the echoing throughout Europe, but the responses are scarcely such as Napoleon would desire. Russ a has not replied, Prussia consults Vienna, Vienna waits for England, and England has, it is said, and we believe truly, simply asked for more exact definitions. As to the popular opinion, the speech caused a full in the funds, averaging 2 per cent. everywhere except in England, where the Stock Exchange, misled by thirty years of unbroken experience, always sees peace in u broken experience, always sees peace in delay. Only from Italy has there arrived delay. Only from Italy has there arrived rapid or cordial acceptance, and the Imperial dream of a world-wide Congress to settle all dream of a world-wide Congress to settle all questions and redistribute Europe, like the Congress of Vienno, but in the interest of the peoples as well as the Kings, is already at an end. The only subject of speculation now is the minor use to which a partial gathering may, notwithstanding, be turned.

The Emperor has followed up his speech by a letter to the crowned heads, to the Germanic Diet, and to the Swiss Republic. The litter, which was first published at Frankfort, and then reprinted in the Moniteur, and is evidently his own work, repeats the assertion that the "European edifice is crumbling away on all sides;" calls on the thrones "to rogulate the present and secure the future by a Congress;" points out that civilization has regulate the present and secure the future by a Congress; "points out that civilization has rendered war still more destructive; alludes to his own "training in the school of advarsity," which binas him "not to ignore the rights of sovereigns or the legitimate aspirations of nations; accounts for his initiative by boildly admitting that he "is the sovereign to whom ambitious projects are most attributed;" and finally "prays them to accept Paris as the place of meeting "for "Europe would see, perhaps, some advantage in the capital from which the signal for subversion has so often been given becoming the seat of the conferences destined to lay the basis of a general pacification." The letter, though Imperial in style, and containing an order-tone of menace, seems dictated primarily by tone of menace, seems dictated primarily by tone of menace, seems dictated primarily by a wish to appear exceedingly moderate.

The Paris Presse says:—"The Imperial proposition has been addressed to 15 Governments—to England, Russia Prussia, Austria, Spain, Turkey, Italy, Portugal, Demark. Sweden and Norway, Belgium, Greece, Holland, Switzerland, and the Germanic Confederation."

I deration."

It is generally understood that the answer of the English Government to the Emperor Napoleon's invitation to a Congress is an inquiry as to the precise topics to be discussed, and the exact ends to be compassed. As the invitations extend to so many Powers it would seem that a series of questions will be opened. When the Emperor particularises the questions which it is his intention to submit to Europe, it will be the duty of the British Government to judge whether these can be advantageously discussed, and whether the decision of the Congress can be in any way enforced against a recusant Power. way enforced against a recusant Power.

A telegram from Vienna cated 14th Nov.

mentions the acceptance of the Emperor's proposition in the following terms: The Courts of Vienna, Berlin and London have greed to accept the proposal of a Congress, ander certain modifications. The Ministers of the Great Powers will confine themselves to the consideration of questions at present pending. Only States concerned in the entire execution of the programme will have a seat and yote at the Congress. Most positive guarantees for the thorough carrying out of the programme will be required.

the programme will be required.

The Poles have accepted the Emperor's speec, as a promise of war in the spring, and the National Government is therefore about to redoubte its efforts. Its presses have laterly been seized, and in Warsaw the Russians have exacted their war tax in spite of the Regulator's probiotion, but the Poles have now an armed force in every palatimate General Respective of the last begun to make wholesale arrests of young girls, who are sentenced in batches to transportation into the interior, sent off without portation into the interior, sent of without warm clothing or communication with their riends, and usually without being informed of friends and usually without being blormed of the charge against them. It is stated that some have been whipped for wearing sad-colored clothes; but there are limits to the barbarity or on of men who have once owned serfs, and the story is hardly worthy of credit. The truth is bad enough without exaggeration, and it is to be hoped that Goneral Berg will be held personally responsible for his will be held personally responsible for his acts. A year of Cayenne might teach him what Siberia really means.

will be held personally responsible for him acts. A year of Cayenne inight teach him what Siberia really means.

There have been the usual semi-official speeches by members to their constituents. At the Lord Mayor's dinner on the 9th Nov. Lord Paimerston was enthusiastically received. He received, he said, not only the highest personal gratification from the Lord Mayor's splend of entertainments, but "acquaintances are formed on these occasions which ripen afterwards into frendship, and it is well known that the transactions of business are made much more easy when those who meet to carry them on know and like each other." Friendship may add interest to such transactions, but searcely, we should think, materially facilitate them. But Lord Palmerston was not unnaturally a it the at a loss for remarks. He lamented the "struggles of the most lamentable character, and seenes which make as shudder for humanity." 'in the far West and distant East; 'b but while Lord Palmerston's west longitude attetched across the Atlantic, his cast longitude conveniently stopped at the massacres of Warsaw, and took he account of the shill more terrible "seene which makes as shudder for humanity" in Japan. He expressed his wish that Russia might at length "cease to pursue" her present course in Poland, but do not even affect any intention of further interference. In short, the Premer's speech was pacific, and culminated in congratulating Loudon, a little mopportunely, that brils are drawn upon it to pay debts an over the world—a face of which the city is just now, with the diminishing buthon in the Bank and a threatening of 7 per cent, painfully concicus.

Mill Villiers addressed his constituents on

M. Villiers addressed his constituents on the same day, at Wolverhampton, in a speech containing the strongest declaration of Northern opinion yet made by a member of the Cabinet. He compared the case of the South boldly to that of Ireland. Repeal was once a great question—"Yes he never remembered one English member who was for it, or one that would not have voted any means to maintain union, or any Minister who would not have been called a traiter who had thought of yielding it; and he did not know to what length they would not have gone to retain the Union had the eminent man who agitated that question so perseveringly not deed. It Ireland secreted to meerow, the very men who rave at the North would arm to put the down, and, probably, while slaughtering Irish secessionists would keep on atusing Americans for acting so like themselver."

On the American question another speaker on the same occasion says: Mr. Lincoln has been tested as few governors have ever been tested, and though he may not always have reen fully to the level of a great emergency, he has seldom tailed to display a noble impir iality, a great firmness of purpose, and a sagain under trial, and the Chief Baron also. That eminent Ma. Villiers addressed his constituents on pri iality, a great immesso of pupiliarian, judgment sagacious, if somewhat utilitarian, judgment The Alexandra case is again under trial, and the Chief Baron also. That eminent judge directed the jury, in a speech which all the world and the jury understood to be a direction for acquittat, on the ground that unless equipment could be proved in Liverpool the law has not been violated. The Attorney-General tendered a bill of exceptions, but the Chief Baron now says he said something, or intended to say something, of quite a different tenor. If, therefore, the new trial for which a rule has been granted should ultimately be relused, but an appeal on the law conceded, the basis of the appeal must be the Chief Baron a second thoughts.

I we'l not be a little cinicult under these cheumetanees either to reverse the decision or to lay Jown the law with any like adequate lainess.

Colonel Vyse, the Conservative candidate has been returned for Windser, by a majority of 51 over Captain Hayter. It is reported that the Premier is likely to fours in the Divorce Court as a code pun-ied. It is said that the roble ford will mest the accusation and fully refute the charges brought against him.

Dr. Trench is appointed to the Archbishop-rick of Dublin, and Canon Stanley succeeds him in the Deanery of Westmuster.

Mr. Commissioner Fonblanque is dangerously ill, and Sir William Atherton, the late Attorney General, very seriously ill.

Sir Hugh Rose the Commander-in-Chief in India, is said to have tendered his resignation.

in India, is said to have tendered his resignation.

In the oblituary we notice the death of Lord Che. ham, better known as the Hon. C. Cavendish, formerly M. P. for the county of Buckingham. By his Lordship's decease a vacancy occurs in the representation of the same county by the succession of the late member to the necruse.

The latest mal advices received from Europe are to November 22nd:
The Attorney General and Solicitor-General of England had spoken in the Alexandra, case before the Barons of the Court of Exchequer. The Attorney-General enlogized the decisions in the American prize courts as "an honor to jurisprodence."
England had replied to Napoleun's invitation to at end a European Congress. The Queen does not give an unqualified acceptance, but asks for further information as to the precise points to be proposed for discussion. A further correspondence between the two Powers on the subject was expected. The papal government accepts the invitation The paper government accepts the invalors to attend the Congress. It was thought that most of the other Powers would ask for turther explanations respecting the bases of the debate in the Congress. The London Times assails the plan of a congress edicated to the congress The Emperor of France had asked from

The match was rather devoid of in-terest, owing to the great superiority of Mr. Dinwoodie, n Canadian and partner in the Dinwoodie, a Canadian and partner in the Prince of Wales claim, who, using an American breech-loader, completely distanced all his tivals. His score was as follows: No. of shots, 27; points, 46; bulls-eyes, 3. Of the other marks nen, the best scores were. Mr. John Wightman (American rifle), No. of shots, 12; points, 12; Mr. J. J. Austin (Enfield rifle), No. of shots, 12; points, 9; bulls-eyes, 1; 1. Pr. T. Gay (Enfield), No. of shots, 12; points, 5; bulls-eyes, 1. After the termination of the match, Mr. Dinwoodie gave a more striking specimen of Canadian's arpshofoling, by standing on the high bank, opposite Henley's, and knocking over a wild duck at a distance of between two and three hundred yards, firing from the shoulder, the duck being in motion at the time. This leat, although not uncommon in Canada, rather astonished some of the spectators, and drew forth much applianse. Prince of Wales claim, who, using an Amer-
